Silver Senators Preparing to Obstruct Tariff Legislation.

They Want to "Get Even" for the Repeal of the Sherman Silver Bill—Other News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The adjournment of the extraordinary session of congress and the developments immediately following it have only served to accentuate the conclusion that the financial question, instead of being solved, is merely in the incipiency of its discussion. The silver senators who stood out for so many weeks against unconditional repeal, will array themselves as obstructionists against tariff legislation. The proposition for an issue of bonds to meet the embarrassments of a depleted treasury, and, indeed, every great public question that comes before the next congress for solution, will find opposed to its consideration a band of silver men who will combat the adjustment of any and all grievances until the cause of silver receives the attention of the Fifty-third congress.

Much interest attaches to a measure which Chairman Springer is said to be preparing on the currency question, after frequent consultations with the administration, and, although the distinguished Illinoisan thinks it will prove the panacea for many ills, he has decided to withhold it from public attention until the opening of the regular session. This conclusion is understood to be the result of suggestions made by administration officials who evidently hope the four weeks to intervene before the opening of the regular session may in some degree allay the general disquietude that exists in all political parties over the financial situation.

Bills have now been reported from the house committee on territories providing for the admission of three new states—Arizona, New Mexico and Utah. There is now pending before the committee the bill introduced by Delegate Flynn, for the admission of Oklahoma. It is expected that there will be something of a contest over this proposition. There are two factions in the Indian territory which are interested in the admission. One wants the Indian territory admitted as a portion of the state of Oklahoma and there is another which wants the section now known as Indian territory to remain in its present condition.

President Cleveland has issued temporary commissions to the following named persons whose nominations failed of confirmations by the senate. This will enable them to perform the duties of their offices until they can be sent to the senate, when that body reconvenes in December: Robert E. Preston, director of the mint; Peter C. Doyle, collector of customs, Buffalo Creek, N. Y.; George S. Weed, collector of customs, Champlain, N. Y.; John K. Kennedy, appraiser of merchandise, Buffalo Creek, N. Y.; Walter H. Bunn, appraiser of merchandise, New York city; John W. A. Strickland, assistant appraiser of merchandise, New York city; Valentine Fleckenstein, collector of internal revenue, Twenty-eighth district of New York; David G. Brown, collector of customs for the district of Montana and Idaho.

TRIPLE MURDER.

One Negro Kills Three Others With an Axe.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 6.—News has just reached here of what will probably become a triple murder in the country northeast of here. A negro named Clark, his wife and a daughter were found in their cabin, their throats cut and their skulls fractured by blows from an axe. They had been assaulted and robbed of some $200 by a negro who had lived with them, named John Milligan. Mrs. Clark was dead. The other two can scarcely survive.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

A German Army Officer Hangs Himself.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—A dispatch from Hanover says that Lieut. Von Meyerick, who was most prominently connected with the gambling fraud trials, and who was recently convicted and sentenced to four years' imprisonment, was found dead in his cell today, having committed suicide by hanging. Lieut. Von Meyerick was a distinguished officer of the Landwerr cavalry and was decorated with the order of the red eagle.

BANKER ARRESTED.

John S. Beach Held on Eleven Indictments.

He Is Charged With Receiving Deposits When He Knew His Bank Was Insolvent.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 6.—John S. Beach, the banker, has been arrested on eleven indictments for embezzlement. But little had been said lately about the failure on August 12 of the Prairie City bank, which he owned. The common belief has been that the bank had been rotten for many years before the assignment, but the people came to believe that Beach would not be prosecuted, or if criminal proceedings should be begun that he would never go to the penitentiary. The indictments were found under a special statute of 1891, which provides that a banker is guilty of embezzlement if he accepts deposits within thirty days of his failure, and that a failure within thirty days after accepting a deposit shall be prima facie evidence of an intent to defraud. The penalty is a fine double the amount of the deposit, and imprisonment from one to three years. In one instance the deposit was made after banking hours August 11, the day before the assignment, and after the assignment is alleged to have been under consideration. The total deposits amounted to $156,000. Other liabilities amounted to $50,000. The latter are secured by mortgages on a business block and his residence. One of these mortgages is given in trust to secure his bondsmen as treasurer of the savings bank, whose money he made use of as his own. After his bank closed $15,000 was taken over to the savings bank, leaving on hand but $2,800 for his depositors. His bills receivable will not pay ten cents on the dollar of his deposits. Among the bills receivable is twenty odd thousand dollars against Henry Clews that dates back before the Clews failure in 1873. Beach has been prominent in social and Episcopal church circles and by the general public has been supposed to be a rich man. Several law firms have been employed to defend him. The defense will be that he did not know that he was insolvent, but supposed his assets were worth more than his liabilities. His bond was fixed at $11,000, and was furnished by John G. Williams, vice-president and general manager of the Vandalia road.

OLYPHANT ROBBERS.

Five of Them Captured by the Sheriff's Posse.

The Men Sullen and Ugly and a Desperate Gang—Much of the Plunder Recovered.

BATESVILLE, Ark., Nov. 6.—Five of the Olyphant robbers in all have been captured. Two are in jail at Batesville and three are being carried overland to Newport. A considerable part of the plunder was recovered from the two men in jail, including pocketbooks, rings and watches. The three men being carried overland were captured in White River bottoms this morning after the exchange of several shots, which wounded one of the robbers. No names were given of those arrested this morning. The two men in jail at Batesville give their names as Lemon and Arnett. They are sullen and refuse to talk. They have every appearance of desperate men.

NOT CAPTURED YET.

BATESVILLE, Ark., Nov. 6.—3 P. M.—The reported capture of three more train robbers today was premature. It seems that at daybreak this morning a posse met three of the robbers near Wackerlys. They fired upon and pursued them so closely that within an hour the robbers abandoned their horses, which were captured with their provisions.

They dropped three overcoats and hats in their flight on foot. Jewelry, watches, etc., were found in coats and saddle pockets. Bloodhounds were put on their tracks at noon and they were followed five miles when the dogs were turned back and the trail was lost. The woods are full of armed men and all outlets are thoroughly guarded, the river being closely watched.

Neither of the captured robbers is Jesse Roper, as was at first supposed, but the most desperate robbers, perhaps, are yet to be captured. The posse all say that they are men and no boys, and think from their reluctance to fire that they must be short of ammunition. Trainmaster Green has returned to Little Rock from the scene of the robbery.

He believes the entire gang will be taken before many hours have elapsed. Parties from Newport and Batesville say that excitement is still running high and that rumors are in circulation of the killing of two of the robbers.

IT ENDS IN SUICIDE.

Shelbyville Girl Steals Poison From Her Lover and Takes It.

Muncie Man Elopes With a Married Woman—Shot at a Charivari—Other Indiana News.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Nov. 6.—A suicide last night, has caused somewhat of a sensation. Miss Eva Hornback, aged seventeen, was in love with John Welcher, of Indianapolis. He had been here since Thursday and it is said they quarreled yesterday. While drunk John went to a drug store and purchased some arsenic. Last evening the girl was found suffering and in great agony. All efforts of physicians failed to save her life. She lived with Mrs. Lynch in the east part of the city and the story told by her is that John bought the poison with the intention of killing himself, but became too drunk, or his heart failed him, and while lying asleep on the floor his sweetheart stole the poison from his pocket, believing that he had taken his portion, and she took the whole portion. But this story is not believed by Coroner Bruce, who is now investigating the case. Welcher fled before the girl was dead and the officers are in hot pursuit of him. The girl came here from Columbus, Ind., a few months ago and had many admirers. She was a beautiful blonde and was quiet in manners.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 6.—A sensational elopement developed in Muncie Saturday and the wife and two children of Elmer E. Fullhart is left alone, as is the husband of Mrs. Ida Hale. Mrs. Fullhart received a letter from her erring husband Saturday, in which he stated that he had deeded all his property to her and that she would never see him again. He also wrote to James Gard, his father-in-law, telling him to take his daughter home and treat her well. Fullhart is guardian for two small children of his deceased brother, and he took $1,000 of their money, which was pension money earned by their father. Mrs. Hale resided in Whitley, and her husband, Charles Hall, was recently hunting Fullhart with a gun, because his wife told him she loved Fullhart better than her own husband. She left a few days since to visit at her former home at Sidney, Ohio. She is a handsome young woman, as is the abandoned wife. Fullhart's people are wealthy and own considerably Muncie property. The woman he left with is the wife of a drayman. The man's peculiar action is the result of leaving a good farm to indulge in the whisky business here.

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 6.—Last night, at a charivari following the marriage of Jim Reed Wilson to his former wife a murder was almost committed. Last spring Mrs. Wilson procured a divorce from her husband on the ground of adultry, although they were both sixty years of age and had been thirty-five years married and had grandchildren. The occasion was so unique that a great force of serenaders tortured the atmosphere and incidentally the wedding party almost to distraction. Suddenly the front door was opened and a woman fired a revolver into the crowd. One of the bullets struck a lad, Jarvis Ball, who was passing. The bullet entered the shoulder, ranging into the neck, barely missing the jugular. The woman who did the shooting has not been identified.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 6.—Hattie Steele fatally shot Michael Shockency yesterday, at the home of the former. Shockency and two companions, named Kelly and Hutchins, called at Mrs. Steele's home and demanded admittance. Upon being refused the door was forced open. Mrs. Steele pulled a revolver, and taking deliberate aim at Shockency's head, fired. The bullet entered his body just below the heart and came out near the spine. The woman fired a shot at Kelly and one at Hutchins, but the bullets went wide of their marks. Shockency was taken to his home and a priest called, who administered the last sacrament to the dying man. Herman Siegmund, one of the crowd who called on the Steele woman, went home and, picking up a shotgun, took deliberate aim at his wife and fired both barrels at her. The woman jumped aside just in time to save her life, but was badly wounded. Mrs Steele and Siegmund were both arrested and are now in the county jail.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 6.—A telegram was received here from Henderson Hayward, 57 Jefferson avenue, Wayside Inn, Chicago, saying to arrest and hold Louise Hayward, on train No. 15. The girl was found in the car seat asleep, but when wakened up said she had committed no crime and was over twenty-one years of age and would not get off. She held a through ticket to Jacksonville, Fla., and said: "I don't see what made father do this." She refused to make any further statement and the officers let her remain and the train pulled out.

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. John Fahrner, while passing the Midland Steel works on South Walnut street last night, were attacked by a gang of drunken iron workers and nearly killed. The men attempted to take Fahrner's wife away from him. He made a hard fight, but was nearly murdered, and the woman was badly injured by being hit in the face with a stone. There were seven men in the crowd. A number of them were arrested.

CURTIS CANNOT BE LOCATED.

San Francisco Courts May Not Get His Testimony in the Bribery Cases.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—It is stated that M. B. Curtis, the actor, who is wanted as a witness in the case of McManus and Dunn, charged with bribery in connection with the Curtis murder trial, left this city last Wednesday on an east bound train and is now out of the jurisdiction of the state courts. Mrs. Curtis testified yesterday that she did not know the whereabouts of her husband, but supposed he was hunting in the mountains.

A FIGHT IMMINENT.

Street Car Men Out on a Strike Defy Police Interference.

Marseilles the Scene of a Turbulent, Howling Mob of Over 5,000 Men and Women.

MARSEILLES, Nov. 6.—The strike of the employes of the horse car lines in this city assumed a most threatening aspect today. The police seem utterly unable to cope with the mob and it is probable that the soldiers will have to be called upon to suppress rioting. The horse car yards and stables of the different companies are already guarded by troops and there is a prospect of a collison between the military and the rioters before the day passes.

This morning a mob of over 5,000 rioters assembled on the Cannobiere, the widest and most frequented thoroughfare of this city, and overturned sixteen horse cars, which the companies attempted to run. In addition the rioters saturated one of the cars with petroleum and set fire to it, amid the cheers and yells of the thousands of rioters crowding around the overturned cars.

The men on a strike demand more wages and fewer working hours, and in order to enforce their demands commenced rioting yesterday and burned several cars which they had previously saturated with petroleum. The rioters also tore up the horse car tracks in a number of places, cheered on in their work of destruction by thousands of people who seemed to be in sympathy with the strikers.

The rioting was renewed last night, when a number of additional car were burned and all traffic on the street railroads was stopped. The mayor of the city is doing his utmost to bring about a settlement of the dispute between the strikers and their employers, but all efforts tending towards pacification have been fruitless up to the present time.

The employes of the car line refuse to go to work unless the lines are guarded by troops. The strikers this afternoon tore up more of the horse car tracks in several places. Placards were posted by the strikers saying that they depend upon the support of the general public in order to enable them to triumph over the companies.

BRAZIL'S NAVY.

The Work of Fitting Up the War Ships Rapidly Progressing.

Considerable Mystery Surrounds the Movements of Certain Ships Supposed to Have Been Purchased.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The work of fitting out a new navy for Brazil goes on as fast as men can do the work. The Destroyer is in the dry dock today, being scraped and made ready for sea service. Preparations on the El Cid are nearing completion and in the afternoon work will be begun on the Britannia. The other ships will follow and it is said that by November 12 the fleet will be ready for sea. It is said that the negotiations are pending for the Ward line steamship City of Washington, but no one at the office of the line would either affirm or deny the story this morning. The only real difficulty is a possible complication which may arise from the action on the part of Mr. Lassoe, of the Erricsson Coast Defense company, who threatens to get out an injunction to prevent the closing of the sale of the Destroyer. On the other hand Mr. Flint said today that he anticipated no serious trouble in regard to the Destroyer or her gun and he confidently expects she will be put to sea with El Cid. None of the ships bought by Flint & Co. for the Brazilian government, with the exception of El Cid and the Feiseen, have as yet been registered by their new owners at the custom house, although they possibly will be before they sail from this port.

MAY BE DETAINED HERE.

There is reason to believe that the vessels of Piexoto fleet will not be allowed to leave port when the time for sailing arrives. It is now rumored that Collector Kilbreth is quite likely to refuse El Cid and the other ships clearance papers on the ground that the crews have been secured from American sailors and with the express purpose of going to Brazil to fight. This is contrary to the United States laws.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 6.—Water will be admitted to the whole length of the Manchester ship canal tomorrow. It is expected that it will take two weeks to fill the canal. The first steamer is expected to make the passage from Liverpool to Manchester on December 1st.

He Must Go to Prison for Fifteen Years.

In the circuit court this morning Judge O'Rourke overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of the state against Joseph Deal, one of the Edgerton murderers, who was found guilty by the jury and given fifteen years in the penitentiary. Justice Ryan fined Mrs. Elizabeth Denny $1 and costs for provoking Margaret Oesfroth. The former immediately swore out a warrant for the arrest of Margaret Oesfroth on the same charge. The suits are the result of a neighborhood quarrel.

These men claimed that they could not be removed until their terms expired.

IN THEIR NEW HOME.

The Dedication of the Handsome Congregational Church.

Interesting Exercises Incident to the Occasion, With a Brief History of the Congregation and Pastor.

The handsome new edifice of the Plymouth Congregational church, at the corner of Harrison and Jefferson streets, was dedicated to the service of God yesterday with interesting exercises, and at each service—in the morning, in the afternoon and in the evening—the audience room was crowded to overflowing.

The act of dedication proper took place at the morning service, and at 10:30 o'clock, when the choir of the church sang the opening voluntary, the scene presented was a brilliant and impressive one, long to be remembered by the pastor and people, who, in years to come, will look back to this event as one of the happiest in the history of their church, for it saw the completion of an edifice of which they can justly feel proud.

The doxology and invocation followed the singing and then came the responsive reading participated in by the pastor and the people, an anthem by the choir, and the address delivered by W. E. Mossman, chairman of the building committee, in delivering the keys of the church to the trustees, which was responded to by Edwin Gillette, on behalf of the church and society. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. B. Fairbank, of Waverly, Ill., the first pastor of the church in this city, and he was followed with the singing of a hymn and remarks by Rev. Dr. N. A. Hyde, of Indianapolis.

Dr. Hyde congratulated the congregation upon the handsome new edifice which they had just finished. The next thing, he said, to having a good family home was to have a good church home. This the Plymouth Congregational church had, and what a beautiful temple it was! Handsomer by far than the one in which he preached at Indianapolis. They were now, he said, fully equipped for church work, and he hoped that the church building would not only be dedicated to the Lord, but that every member would give themselves afresh to the service of God and be builded up in the faith, accomplishing grander and better work for the Master than they had ever done before.

Pastor Ainslie then introduced Rev. J. Francis Davies, of Lima, Ohio, who delivered the dedicatory sermon. It was a powerful address and rich in thought, delivered with a peculiar Welch accent and forcible eloquence that held his large audience attentive listeners until its close.

He took as his text the ninth verse of the fifth chapter of Ezra: "Who commanded you to build this house and to make these walls?" After a few introductory remarks, in which he spoke of the delivery of the keys and this being the commencement of a new and brighter career for the church, he proceeded to discuss the purpose for which the church was built. It was, he said, erected by the command of God and its purpose was to benefit the members and to increase their opportunities of carrying its benefits to others.

The church was a workshop. Here you have the tools and the materials for Christian work. It is a repair shop where lives are reformed, characters builded up and manhood strengthened. It is a wreck train which goes out after the ditched locomotive and the shattered cars, and returns them to the shops where they are repaired and made as good as new. Full of hope and with confidence in their own strength men, like the grand locomotive that thunders along our iron highways, go out into the arena of life and are often wrecked by sin. The wreck train of the church gathers them, takes them to the repair shop and puts upon them again the impress of true manhood—Christianity.

The locomotive that pulls our crowded cars through the states is a grand piece of mechanicism to look upon, but it is powerless for use without the application of steam. So it is with the church of Christ. You may have costly and beautiful temples, you may have grand organs, you may have learned and eloquent pastors, you may, in fact, have what the world calls all the equipments for church work, but if you lack pure Christianity, a consecrated desire and an earnest effort to save souls, all these will be in vain. You must have steam, the steam of God's spirituality, and then with your grand temples of worship you will go forward doing good. God has commanded you to build this house and make these walls. Use it for his honor and glory and let every member be a consecrated, working Christian. This is the mission of the church here on this earth.

The sermon of Rev. Davies was followed by remarks from Rev. Ainslie and the voluntary offerings, after which the dedication took place, being participated in by both the pastor and people. The prayer of dedication was offered by Rev. Hyde and the services of the morning closed with the dedicatory hymn and the benediction.

The afternoon services at 3 o'clock were largely attended. The singing was a special feature, being rendered by the Haydn, Linden, and Prof. Miles' quartettes. The principal address, a most able and interesting one, was delivered by Rev. John B. Fairbank, of Waverly, Ill., who was the pastor of the Congregation in this city when it was first organized twenty-three years ago. Greetings and brief addresses were also delivered by Revs. Eldridge, Northrop, Lepper, Moffat and others.

In the evening the church was crowded to its fullest capacity. The Haydn quartette led the singing and charmed the immense audience with several selections. The first address was delivered by Mr. Alexander Johnson, of this city, the superintendent of the School for Feeble Minded Youth. His subject was "The Church of Christ as a Social Force." It was Mr. Johnson's first appearance before a Fort Wayne audience since he has taken charge of the feeble minded institution, and he made a most favorable impression, his address being an excellent one and attentively listened to. He pointed out what the church is doing along the line of social reforms and the grand good it is accomplishing for humanity in this direction.

Rev. E. D. Curtis, D. D., of Indianapolis, one of the most eloquent ministers in the state, was the next speaker. He spoke of the providence of God, and His governing power in the affairs of men. He was followed by Rev. H. O. Spelman, of Angola, Rev. Dr. Moffat and Rev. Hyde.

The church edifice is spacious, being 56 by 136 feet, and well arranged for all the work of a progressive church. In the front, on Jefferson street, there are two entrances into the main audience room, which is 54 by 65½ feet on the inside, and has a bowled floor, loping to the pulpit in the corner, diagonally across the room from the tower. The pews will seat 500 people, and when extra chairs were brought in, as last night, 600 found seats. Behind the pulpit is the choir platform and place for the organ.

On Harrison street is the outside entrance to the Sunday school room and vestry, which is separated from the audience room by sliding doors, and can be thrown open for large audiences. To the right of the hall is the cloak room, and next the young men's room, with the pastor's study in the rear. On the east side of the main Sunday school room are toilet rooms, ladies' parlors, class room, library and choir room, which opens into the choir platform, in the corner of the auditorium.

The primary room is in the gallery on Harrison street, and in direct range of the pulpit, so that when the sliding doors are pushed back nearly the whole building can be utilized as an auditorium, as it was used last night, holding fully 1,000 people. The main Sunday school room is used, also, for the mid week meeting and for the kindergarten, the floor being cleared for the little red chairs.

Beneath are the large dining hall, kitchen, pantry and gentlemen's toilet room. The inside finish is quartered oak, the ceiling is of steel plates, arranged in beautiful arches, with a magnificent combination chandelier in the center, utilizing both electricity and gas. The decorating was done by Mr. Kirchefer, our local artist, and is beautiful in its soft and delicate coloring.

The total value of the property is $28,000, the lot costing $7,000. Of this amount $10,000 had previously been raised by the members of the church and congregation and gifts from leading citizens of Fort Wayne. At least $1,000 is promised by the Congregational Church Building society, of New York, and the pledges and offerings from the services yesterday reached the handsome sum of $2,500, so that the remaining indebtedness is $8,500, which the pastor and people expect to cancel in yearly installments.

Yesterday's services were a grand success in every particular. The large numbers who were present, the cordial spirit of Christian fellowship, manifested by the pastors and people of the other churches, and the liberal offerings, surpassed expectations of the most sanguine workers. Thus the Plymouth Congregational church is launched, and gives promise of rapid growth and ever widening usefulness.

The services incident to the dedication will continue tonight, tomorrow night and Wednesday night. At the church tonight Deacon John Gilbert will give a history of the church. There will be addresses by former pastors, Revs J. B. Fairbanks, of Waverly, Ill.; J. M. Seymour, of Chicago, and others, and an informal reception in the social rooms of the church.

Tomorrow evening is Christian Endeavor and Sunday school evening. Rev. J. B. Fairbanks, Rev. J. C. Cromer and Mr. E. A. K. Hackett will take the lead.

Wednesday evening has been styled "An evening of outlook and forecasting." The church expects addresses from such Christian workers as Rev. Dr. Shaffer, of Cleveland, Ohio; Rev. Dr. Montgomery, of Chicago, and Rev. James Haynes, of the Coal Mine mission, of Southern Indiana.

The Plymouth Congregational church is a comparatively young organization in this city. It was organized in Fort Wayne, on the 20th of September, 1870, by Rev. Dr. N. A. Hyde, of Indianapolis, with twenty-five members, who met at first for worship in a building opposite the old church on West Washington street. In the following year the congregation undertook the erection of a frame church building at the corner of Washington and Fulton streets, which was completed the following year at a cost of $7,500. The first pastor was Rev. John B. Fairbank, who served five years. He was succeeded by Rev. A. B. Brown, who served one year, and was succeeded by Rev. Joel M. Seymour, who remained pastor for nearly eight years. Then Rev. E. A. Hazeltine was called and remained eighteen months. He was succeeded by Rev. J. C. Cromer, who resigned in May, 1889, to accept the pastorate of a church at Chicago.

The congregation here needed an active church worker and church builder. Rev. Dr. E. D. Curtis, of Indianapolis, superintendent of churches in Indiana had such a man in his mind's eye. It was Rev. James Stuart Ainslie, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., and through Dr. Curtis' efforts, Rev. Ainslie was induced to leave a prosperous charge in Ogdensburg and come to this city, which he did in July, 1890. The church has prospered under his ministry, and the membership has almost thribbled since he assumed the pastorate.

Rev. Ainslie is a young man, being now only thirty-seven years of age. He was born on a farm in Otsego county, N. Y., where his early life was spent. He attended district schools, followed teaching awhile, and at the age of seventeen entered the Cooperstown Union schools and academy, and graduated when twenty-one years old with the highest honors of his class. He then attended Cornell university for four years, receiving the title of B. A. upon graduation. He afterwards studied theology in the Yale Divinity school, at New Haven, Conn., and in 1882 began his ministry in Ogdensburg, N. Y., where he organized the First Congregational church of that city, and where he labored for eight years and a half, building a handsome church edifice, and doing a work that placed him in the front rank as a pulpit orator and church builder. Since coming to this city he has made many friends, and has met, with wonderful success in his efforts to increase the membership and secure a new house of worship which is a credit and an honor to the Congregationalists of Fort Wayne.

POWDER EXPLOSION.

British Naval Officers Killed and Injured.

The Men Were Getting Sand Near the Magazine When the Accident Happened.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Secretary Herbert has received a dispatch from Captain Picking of the cruiser Charleston, now at Rio de Janeiro, which confirms the press dispatches of an explosion of a powder magazine in which several men were killed and injured. The dispatch was in cipher and read as follows:

"RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 4.

"There was an explosion of a large quantity of powder belonging to the insurgents on Governors Island last evening. Two British naval officers, a boatswain and one man were killed. A fireman was wounded seriously. They were getting sand near the magazine in which the powder was stored. Admiral Mello claims that the Brazilian government is to blame for the disaster."

ASSASSIN PRENDERGAST.

His Trial Postponed Until the 27th of November.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Mayor Harrison's assassin, Prendergast, appeared for trial today, but upon the request of attorneys secured for him by his brother, a letter carrier, the case was continued by Judge Dunne until November 27. The lawyer for the defense stated that they desired time to study the case.

Silver Senators' Address.

An address to the people of the United States in the interest of the free coinage of silver has been issued by a number of senators and representatives who took part in the discussion of the bill repealing the purchase clause of the Sherman act. The address contains about 1,700 words and is signed by Senators Peffer, Jones, Stewart, Kyle and Allen, and by Representatives Davis, Baker, Bowen, Bell, of Colorado; Harris, Hudson, Simpson, Pence, Kem and McKeighan. It reviews the recent financial fight and urges the people to study the financial question.

More Dollars To Be Made.

Important action has been taken by the treasury department in regard to silver. Orders were sent to the superintendents of the United States mints at San Francisco and New Orleans to resume the coinage of standard silver dollars. This action is taken under authority of section 3 of the Sherman law of 1890.

It is for the purpose of utilizing the seigniorage that the coinage of standard silver dollars is resumed. The expectation is that about 1,500,000 standard silver dollars can be coined at once which will give the United States treasury a seigniorage of about $500,000. In other words the seigniorage bears the proportion of one-third to the amount of silver coined. It is the intention of the treasury department as the other mints become clear of gold coinage, to have them also coin silver and thus increase the coinage from 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 silver dollars per month.

This seigniorage is so much clear gain to the United States treasury, and if it could all be placed to the credit of the government at once it would increase the balance by $53,000,000. The amount of silver subject to coinage is 140,000,000 ounces.

The silver bullion to be thus converted into standard silver dollars is the silver purchased under the Sherman act of 1890, and upon which the coin notes are issued. The coinage will increase money in circulation to the extent of the seigniorage.

Trade Growing Brighter.

The leading trade journals announce that the effect of the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act is already appreciable in the business world. The most conspicuous result has been the establishment of a firmer tone in financial and commercial circles. Bankers are reported to be more liberal in accommodations and merchants more hopeful in their purchases.

R. G. Dunn & Co.'s weekly review of trade, which has just been issued, says: "The repeal of the silver purchase act does good already. The business world in every part of the country reckons it helpful, and the tone of trade is more confident. It is hardly time as yet for the effects to be felt to any great extent in manufactures, but bankers are more liberal in accommodations and merchants more hopeful in purchases. It is well to remember that the act will do less good than if it had been passed early in the spring, or without delay after congress assembled.

"It cannot now prevent several thousand failures which have already occurred, nor relieve creditors from resulting embarrassments. It cannot now save from loss a multitude of manufacturing establishments which have closed because the future seemed uncertain. It will go far to restore business confidence, which was much needed, but many may expect from the measure larger results than can at this late day be realized."

Bradstreet says: "Telegraphic advices from many of the more important business centers are that some effects of the passage of the silver purchase repeal law are reflected in an improved tone in financial circles, and the growth of confidence of merchants in the outlook. The earliest reported effect is seen in an improvement in the demand for commercial paper at New York and some other centers."

It is reasonable to anticipate an early restoration of business and industrial activity. Capital, which recognized in the Sherman law a source of danger, is shaking off its timidity. There is plenty of money in the country to carry on all of those enterprises which hold out the hope of a reasonable return on the investments which they require.

The feeling here in Fort Wayne is certainly growing more hopeful, and there is a pronounced tendency among the merchants to extend and enlarge their commercial operations.

Whisky and Unhappiness.

Archbishop Ireland, the eminent Catholic prelate, in a recent address on temperance says:

"A young man staggers by you, unheeded and, you may think, deserving to be unheeded. Aye, but he was once a mother's joy and pride; she cared not for wealth or empire, when she pressed her boy to her bosom. Now he is a drunkard and her old age is steeped in sorrow. The next one was the hope of a father's declining years; he spent upon him riches of hand and affections of heart; today the father is friendless and famishing and the son's heart has but one love, whisky. How often the happy bride of yesterday finds herself, ere the voice of the holy promises spoken before God's altar has ceased to reverberate in her ear, the wife of a drunkard! For years she leads a life of sorrow and misery, the horrors of which no one realizes who has not witnessed them. He had pledged undying affection, knightly protection; when he comes home from the saloon his mouth opens to curse, and his hand rises to strike. Only alcohol could produce the hellish scene of a weak, timid, loving wife, weltering in her blood, and a brutal man, her husband, gloating over the scene! And the little ones! Is there no spark of human feeling left in the drunkard? No. The tiger of the forest, the lion of the desert, feed and protect their young; a drunkard leaves his children to starve, if he does not in his cruelty hasten their death."

Blue Blood.

The late Marshal MacMahon was one of the grand figures on the stage of French republicanism in the last quarter of a century. He had a mind at once judicial and executive, a temper at once firm and sweet. Called from the office of commander in chief of the army to fill the chair of president of France in the most perilous days of the republic's existence, in May, 1873, he refrained from a temptation before which even Napoleon fell, the temptation to make himself dictator. No purer patriot, scarcely an abler man, conservative though he was, has the third French republic numbered among its citizens. He lived to the good old age of 85, long enough to see the republic firmly established and respected among all nations.

All through his career MacMahon showed evidences of both the high sense of honor and the staying qualities that are the infallible evidences of blue blood. The genuinely high born individual is the one whom no disaster can down, no inducements bribe from his duty. He stands like a rock. Marshal MacMahon's ancestry includes, during the two centuries through which it can be traced back, Baron Sully, Marquis de Viange, Comte de Charney, and the noble lady, Charlotte le Belin d'Eguilly. But the finest blood of all comes from the couple who were the founders of the family in Ireland, John MacMahon, a servant in the noble house of Sarsfield, and Mary Clarke, waiting maid to Lord Tyrconnel. Marshal MacMahon was quite un-French in one respect. He was almost painfully modest. He could not have inherited this bashfulness from his French ancestors. It must have come from his Irish blood.

Yacht Building.

"A yacht," says an expert, "is a seagoing vessel designed and used for recreation as distinguished from commerce." Nevertheless the exact copy of the seagoing yacht can be copied and used for recreation as well upon our large lakes and rivers, and therein lies the general interest in the subject that has been excited by the great international race. Every time such a race comes off it is supposed in advance to be a settler for the question whether the cutter or centerboard model is the better. For 42 years the Briton has been declaring that the cutter pattern could outsail the centerboard pattern, and every time he has tried to prove it he has been defeated. Anybody but a Briton would have given up long ago, but it is almost certain that next year the same old race between the Yankee centerboarder and the John Bull deep keel will be run once more.

What is the difference in the two models? The cutter, or British yacht, has a deep, sharp, narrow hull that extends far down into the water. The centerboarder, on the contrary, has a shallow hull that rides more on top of the water. But in a slit or case in the center of it is an oval shaped board, which may be let down into the water to steady the boat when sailing against the wind and drawn up so as not to retard her when she is skimming over the water with the wind. Thus the American model can be a cutter or shallow keel at need. The facts in regard to yacht building and racing seem to be as follows: The Americans can build the fastest yachts, but the British can furnish the best sailors to man them.

One curious effect of the hard times has been to diminish the revenues of the postoffice department so much that a deficit of $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 is looked for. The usual amount that Uncle Sam is out through his mail service is something like $4,000,000. Hundreds of houses have failed or gone out of business, and that stopped thousands of letters. It is not likely that private individuals have left off their letter writing sufficiently to cause a drop of millions in the postoffice revenues. This, however, has happened in the case of private individuals—they have left off subscribing to newspapers and magazines by the thousand, so that the decrease in the earnings of second class postal matter is very marked.

The old countries of Europe that do not know what they have been missing all these thousands of years are about to be enlightened as to the use of cranberries. When we think that the benighted Europeans never have known what it is to eat roast turkey with cranberry sauce, we cease to wonder at the slow progress of republicanism among them. Now, however, this is to be changed. Professor A. J. Rider of Trenton, secretary of the American Cranberry Growers' association, has gone to England to introduce the beautiful red fruit there and to find a foreign outlet for the products of our cranberry bogs.

The McCreary amendment to the Chinese exclusion act changes the original bill so as to allow people with negro blood in them to be competent witnesses to a Chinaman's certificate and extends the time allowed for registration six months. If the senate finishes the silver question in six months so that it can pass instead of the amended law, then the Chinese may get the benefit of it after all.

A Vermont farmer writes thus pertinently to an agricultural paper: "The question is asked, 'Why does the New England farmer stick to his rocky farm?' I want to know what else on earth he can do?"

Of the virtues, one of the grandest is sincerity.

VERY ROMANTIC.

The Strange Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Shook.

The Young Bride Did Not Die, But, on the Contrary, Seems to Be on the Road to Recovery.

The sequel to the romantic death bed marriage of Saturday, first reported in THE SENTINEL, is that cupid has cheated death and the bride is now much improved and may yet recover.

The affair was one of the most romantic in local history and there is yet something behind the whole occurrence which has not been given to the public by the persons interested. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. M. S. Marble, of the Berry street M. E. church, and not by a justice of the peace. The young husband had made an effort to secure a 'squire but could not for some reason. The home of the girl is in Dixon, Ill., and her parents are both dead. Of late years the girl, who is scarcely over seventeen, has lived a life of shame and came to Fort Wayne about the time of the recent races. She secured rooms over the saloon at the northeast corner of Main and Harrison streets. She frequented Aufrechts bar room and about five weeks ago was taken very seriously ill. She was attended by one or two different physicians and finally was taken in charge by Dr. Holmes. The doctor made an effort to have Trustee Brackenridge do something for the girl, but the trustee refused to aid her upon the recommendation of Dr. Tinkham, who examined the girl and said she was not seriously ill or in need of treatment.

John Shook, the husband of the sick girl, has been in this city for several days past. He came from Indianapolis, where his parents live. He says he first met Miss Wilson in Aufrecht's saloon and fell in love with her. He married the girl not merely to please a dying request, but because he loved her. He asked her first if she would not leave off her old life and be true to him, and she told him she would. From the very moment Rev. Marble pronounced the words that made the couple man and wife the girl began to improve. There is no doubt but what the girl is ill from heart disease, as Dr. McCullough called upon her with Dr. Holmes, this morning, and said the girl evidently had heart trouble. It was reported that Shook was not the name of the husband but he claims that it is and that his home is not Fort Wayne, but Indianapolis. He seems to be very sincere and is a pleasant appearing young fellow. He also seems very much in love with his new wife and is more than anxious for her recovery. The romance is not near over.

HENRY LABOUCHERE'S unknown tormentor, who caused wagon loads of goods to be sent to the editor of Truth, who has never ordered them, has now turned his attention to Mr. Caine, another member of Parliament, for whom he has obligingly placed large orders with carpet manufacturers, furniture dealers, and jewelers. The joker has thus far eluded the police, although his operations have extended over a period of nearly a year.

THEY are trying to do away with elaborate and expensive funerals in Pittsburg. If they do they'll sacrifice the only source of excitement and diversion left to the inhabitants of that sleepy old town.

You can't believe some dealers always. They want to sell the medicine that pays them the largest profit. What you want to buy is the one that does you the most good. Which one is it? Sometimes, it may be a matter of doubt. But in the case of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, there's no room for doubt. It's a matter that can be proved.

With the facts before you, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else offered as "just as good."

And here's the proof: Among all the medicines that claim to cure woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities, and diseases, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only one that's guaranteed.

If it doesn't do all that's claimed for it, if it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you'll have your money back.

There's strength and vigor for every tired and feeble woman, health and a new life for every delicate and ailing woman—and if there's no help, there's no pay.

ALIX, THE FLEET ONE

RECORD OF THE WORLD'S FASTEST TROTTER.

The Champion Four-Year-Old and Trotting Race Mare and Her Magnificent String of Victories on the Track—A Great Record.

THE PROGRESS IN the breeding and development of trotters has been little short of wonderful. All the early trotters of any importance reached maturity before their development was actually begun, and we can all remember when colts were generally allowed to run unbroken until they had nearly or quite reached maturity.

Many horsemen can remember when the first trotters of any age entered the 2:30 class, while now the yearlings with records of 2:30 or better have become so numerous scarcely any one would attempt to name them from memory.

The two-year old record is now 2:10¾, the three-year-old, 2:10¾. The four-year-old record was reduced last season to 2:10, both Moquette and Alix reaching that mark, and is now down to 2:06¾, while the five-year-old record is a tie between Kremlin and Alix at 2:07¾. Alix's record having been made in a race, beating the world's champion race record previously held by Martha Wilkes and made when 9 years old.

It was formerly believed that early maturity as applied to the trotters necessarily meant early decay, and with the systems of training as practiced years ago that was undoubtedly true. To Gov. Stanford properly belongs great credit for [illegible] radical change that has taken place in the method of developing the youngster, so that very few are used up compared with what would be to produce anything like the same amount of speed by the old systems.

Along with the improvement in training there has also been a great advance in breeding. The fastest and best of to-day frequently have just as close thoroughbred crosses as did the earlier trotters, and there has not been such a very marked change in the quality of the thoroughbred in the last quarter of a century, but there has been a very great improvement in the best trotting strains.

Breeding and development have, according to the New York Journal, produced numerous trotting sires, which now get a fairly high rate of speed with the greatest of uniformity, but this not many years ago was so very rare that up to the time of Hambletonian it was an open question whether there was any such thing as a trotting sire, and there certainly was up to the time no real trotting family.

Now the fastest and best colt trotters take as they approach maturity the fastest trotting records. Years ago there was an idea that a precocious youngster or a so-called lot trotter would prove of no account when put to training, but now it is well known that those which show best in the kindergarten, and, in fact, even before being weaned, are regarded as the most promising for trotters later on.

Up to three years ago only a very few 2-year-olds had entered the 2:30 list, but that year Alix, the subject of our sketch, trotted six races and took a race record of 2:30 in the second heat of a four heat race which she won. As a 3-year-old she started thirteen times and reduced her record to 2:16¾.

As a 4-year-old she competed in several of the last 4-year-old races of the year, and finished with a race record of 2:12¾, winning the three heats of that race in 2:13 or better, and a time record of 2:1[illegible] which no other of that age had been, and only one had equalled.

Her career as a 5-year-old is probably not yet near finished, still she has already met and defeated the very best, winning at Columbus, Aug. 24, the fastest five-heat race that had ever been trotted, and telling in the fifth heat a record of 2:07¾ which no other had equalled.

At Chicago, Sept. 2, she met such fast and game campaigners as Hulda (2:08½), by Guy Wilkes; Pixley (2:09¾), by Jay Gould; Nightingale (2:10½), by Mambrino King; Little Albert (2:10), by Albert W.; Greenleaf (2:10¾), by Simmons; Lord Clinton (2:10¾), Ryland T. 2:11¾), Walter E. (2:10), and Alvin (2:11). These were decidedly the fastest and best ten trotters that ever competed in any race, and though in the first heat the world's trotting record was reduced by Alix to 2:07¾ each of the others was within the flag.

SPORTING NOTES.

Manager Schmelz has signed catcher Dugdale for next year's Washington team.

Killen has won more games than any other league pitcher.

Jim O'Rourke says the Louisvilles will stand much higher next season.

Billy Earle has certainly proved a good man in all things for Pittsburg.

The composer Pizzi has been the guest of Adelina Patti at Craig-y-Nos, rehearsing his new opera, "Gabriella," for Patti's next American tour.

Manager Tebeau says that his Johnstown club has lost $2,500 on the season.

Danny Lyons has reached first base eighty-two times on balls. "Good eye."

Hawke's drop ball is said to be far more effective than his most speedy shoots.

A Mail Robber Mystery.

[Philadelphia Correspondence.]

The postal authorities have just cleared up a big mail robbery, which occurred recently at Doylestown. A mail bag containing $12,000 worth of drafts and checks was stolen from the baggage car as it was about to depart for Philadelphia. The local authorities were unable to unravel the mystery and called for assistance of the Philadelphia police and the postal authorities. They scoured the country looking for William Johnson, a negro, who had been seen hanging around the station. Johnson was finally discovered hiding in a barn and upon being accused took the officers to a corn stack, under which the bag was found but it had been rifled of its contents and a burned spot in the field near by showed where they had burned the papers.

A VEGETARIAN MISSIONARY.

Miss Yates Coming From England to Teach Us Culinary Tricks.

MISS MAY YATES.

The international vegetarian congress was one among many gatherings in Chicago during the World's fair. Miss May Yates, organizing secretary of the London Vegetarian society, was largely responsible for it and worked hard to make it a success. She acted as general secretary of the congress and had charge of the exhibit of the Vegetarian Federal union up to the time of her departure for her home in England some weeks ago.

During her stay among us Miss Yates reached the conclusion that there was a promising field in this country for the propagation of the vegetarian idea, and now she has resolved to come back and undertake the work. She is going to lecture and expects to reap an overflowing harvest of converts. It is quite probable she will not be disappointed, for she is very energetic, and vegetarianism is fast becoming a popular fad among Americans again, even without the impetus which popular lecturers are sure to give it, as they did in the days of Sylvester Graham.

The toothsome graham bread is about all that remains to us of that old original vegetarian movement, so far as the general public is aware, but there are still surviving a few of the old disciples who expected to usher in an era of temperance, peace and prosperity through the mediumship of an entirely vegetable diet for the people. There are some thousands of vegetarians among us, too, who have but recently been converted to the idea by the writings of Lady Paget and other eminent English advocates of the doctrine, so that Miss Yates will not find a soil entirely unprepared for the seed she wishes to sow.

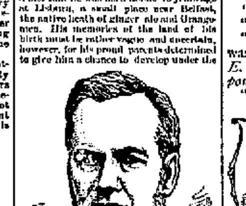

She evidently expects some help from the temperance people, too, for she says: "Aside from the reduction of the cost of living, I consider the vegetarians are doing good temperance work. By abstaining from meats and eating nothing but fruits, grain and vegetables, one gradually loses his appetite for all alcoholic stimulants. This in itself, I think, should induce most men to become vegetarians."

A VETERAN RAILROAD PRESIDENT.

Sam Sloan Has Long Directed the Interests of the Lackawanna.

The acquirement by W. K. Vanderbilt of a controlling interest in the stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad aroused considerable newspaper discussion, in which frequent mention was necessary of the name of the president of that road, Sam Sloan, as he signs himself, though he was probably christened Samuel.

No one would ever suppose that Mr. Sloan is an Irishman, but it is nevertheless a fact that he was born about 75 years ago at Lisburn, a small place near Belfast, the native heath of ginger ale and Orangemen. His memories of the land of his birth must be rather vague and uncertain, however, for his proud parents determined to give him a chance to develop under the benign influence of the stars and stripes, and brought him to America when he was but 3 years of age. Since then New York city has been the scene of his activities and successes, which had a beginning humble enough to prove his sterling qualities.

At the age of 10 he was sent to the famous old Columbia College Grammar school, then thought to be the best school in existence, but before he had completed the course he was compelled by the death of his father to leave school and go to work. His rise was rapid. At 19 he was an errand boy, at 27 a partner in one of the best known mercantile establishments in New York. At 38 he was president of the Hudson River Railroad company, and at 40 retired from mercantile life to devote himself entirely to his railway interests.

Mr. Sloan remained president of the Hudson River road until it was leased by the New York Central in 1869, when he resigned and became commissioner of arbitration for the settlement of disputes for the trunk lines. In 1867 he was elected president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, in which position he still remains, having conducted the affairs of the company successfully through many trying periods and built up a powerful line.

Mr. Sloan has been remarkable all his life for the strictness of his attention to business and the regularity of his habits. His friends know of but one lapse in his whole career, and that was in 1858 when he neglected business long enough to serve a term in the New York senate. He soon recovered from this, however, and has since been a model in all respects.

GETTING OUT OF IT.

Witherby Maintains His Dignity or Thinks He Does.

Mrs. Witherby—Oh, look out, dear! You are putting that mucilage brush in the ink bottle.

Witherby (jabbing it in)—Well, what of it?

Mrs. Witherby—There! If that isn't just like a man. So obstinate! You wouldn't admit you're wrong. I should think you would be ashamed to give way so to your feelings.

Witherby—Wrong! Obstinate! (Jabbing it in again.) What do you mean? I guess I can put a mucilage brush in an inkwell if I want to.

Mrs. Witherby—Of course, but how foolish! I should think you would have more self control. I never saw such a man!

Witherby (gaining time)—Didn't, eh? Umph. You don't know what you are talking about. How do you know but what I wanted that mucilage brush in that inkstand?

Mr. Witherby—How absurd! What could you possibly want it there for?

Witherby (sarcastically)—Well, it is barely possible that I put it there on purpose. Of course, being a woman, such a thing would never occur to you, but as I am only a common, ordinary man I suppose I shall have to go into detail. I believe you painted two pieces of china the other day, didn't you? And I also believe, madam, that you requested me to pack them in a plain soapbox and send them to your uncle in Chicago.

Mrs. Witherby—Yes. I supposed you had forgotten all about it.

Witherby—Certainly you did. It takes a woman to go on a supposition like that. The fact that I was never known to forget anything in my life counts as nothing. You jumped at the conclusion that I forgot. It is, however, of no consequence that I am continually misjudged. I am used to it. Now, madam, I presume you are aware that if that box ever reaches your uncle it must be properly addressed.

Mrs. Witherby—Of course.

Witherby—Precisely. And I presume you may be aware that writing the address on a card and tacking the said card on the box is a very unsafe, unbusinesslike method.

Mrs. Witherby—I don't know as I had thought about it."

Witherby—Certainly not. I have been thinking for you for the last 20 years, and it would be strange if you should begin now. Well, madam, to proceed, what is the most natural, feasible, simple method to get that box addressed? Why, with a brush and a little ink. Isn't it?

Mrs. Witherby—But, my dear, I could have got you another brush. I—

Witherby—Certainly you could. I was aware of that. But in your simple, guileless, woman's way you are of course not supposed to know of the chemical value of the admixture of mucilage and ink for marking purposes. You are not aware, madam, that ordinary ink applied with an ordinary brush will run into wood. I am not surprised that you do not know that a little mucilage rightly administered is the exact thing to prevent this.

Mrs. Witherby—Well, it may be all right, but it certainly did look funny.

Witherby—Of course it looked funny. Every woman sees things in a funny light at rare intervals, even if they haven't a sense of humor. Now, if you will get that soapbox, I will fix it up.

Mrs. Witherby—Well, of course, darling, if that was your idea, why, all right. I'll fetch it right up. (Leaves the room.)

Witherby (wiping his brow)—Phew! That was a narrow escape. I wonder what I would have done if it hadn't been for that box?

Mrs. Witherby (after the box)—And he thinks I believed him!—New York Press.

A Favorite in Kentucky.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have sold." There is good reasons for this. Nothing will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. RAILROADS AND SHOPS.

Two Boys Narrowly Escape a Horrible Death.

Two Runaways—Supt. E. A. Gould to Be Married—Supt. J. B. Barnes Improving—Local Gossip.

Two boys narrowly escaped being crushed beneath passenger trains yesterday. One, Otto Slink, who sells papers at the south depots, carelessly stood too near the rails as the southbound Grand Rapids train was coming in and was struck by the engine in such a manner as to lay him flat on his back on the platform, but, luckily, beyond the reach of the wheels. He was slightly bruised about the body and arms and badly frightened.

Another boy, whose name could not be learned, attempted to get on a westbound train at Hanna street. He caught the hand rail, but missed his footing and was dragged two blocks. Spectators were horror stricken, they expecting to see the lad ground into pieces. But he pushed himself out from the train and dropped to the ground in safety. Only a week or two ago the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hohnholz, of 109 Wallace street, was badly injured by attempting to jump on a moving train and it was hoped that his sad experience would have a tendency to keep other boys from attempting the same feat. But there is just as much, if not more, of that "sport" going on now as there was before young Hohnholz was injured.

SUPT. E. A. GOULD WILL WED.

At Peru next Wednesday Mr. E. A. Gould and Miss Fannie Barris will be united in marriage. The prospective bride is quite prominent in Peru society, being the daughter of the proprietor of one of the leading hotels in that city. Mr. Gould, as our readers already know, is the division superintendent of the Wabash. He is one of the prominent railroad men of the state, commencing his career in that line as a dispatcher on the Wabash road west of Mobile, Mo., and gradually working his way up to his present responsible position, which he assumed four years ago, when George W. Stevens resigned. Mr. Gould is quite well known in this city and several of our citizens will attend the wedding.

BRIEF MENTION.

Louis Keelle, of the Pittsburg planing mills, is taking a short vacation.

Peter Anderson, of the Bass blacksmith shop, is sick and off duty.

William Shafer has resigned his position with Rhinesmith & Simonson.

Charles P. Cherry, chief clerk in the Pittsburg store room, is sick with malarial fever.

Machinist George Schlenker, of the electric light works, is off duty on account of sickness.

General Passenger and Ticket Agent Chandler, of the Wabash, is hunting and fishing in Arkansas.

The eyesight test car has started on its biennial tour of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton ticket office was entered by thieves Saturday night, at Lima, Ohio, and $22 taken.

Messrs. Barber, Gardner, Rohlman and Busse, painters in the Pittsburg shops, have gone to Chicago to paint a power station building.

Pittsburg steel and iron rail manufacturers complain of the dullness of trade in their business. Very little railway building is now being done.

The elevator which was burned at Wabash some time ago, will be rebuilt this fall. Superintendent E. A. Gould is now advertising for bids on the building.

The trains on Fort roads are nearly all on time nowadays and those who travel on business are glad that the rush and delays of a few weeks ago are over.

Two men are locked up at Lima on suspicion of having stolen an overcoat from one of the passengers on the second section of Pittsburg train No. 4 Friday last.

W. R. Meyers, secretary of state, will receive a fee of $3,000 for the part he will perform in the consolidation of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Ohio and Mississippi railroad companies.

J. D. White, Fred Engelking, Christian Bruns and Joseph Grothaus made a run to Auburn and back on their bicycles yesterday. They report the roads in excellent condition for wheeling.

The Wabash is placing a new track scale in its yards. The new scale is much larger than the old one.

M. C. Tierney, engineer at the Pittsburg machine shop, has resumed his position after a few days' illness.

Blacksmith Joseph Carry, of the Pittsburg shops, is suffering with inflammation of the eyes and is off duty.

Albert Wichman, of the Anthony Wayne works, has returned from Kendallville, where he was visiting relatives.

L. R. Adams, of the electric light works, is sick and has gone to Convoy, Ohio, to remain until his health improves.

Jacob Hausbach resumed his duties in the Bass blacksmith shop this morning after a few days' absence on account of a lame hand.

John Franke, jr., son of John Franke, the popular machinist, has taken a position as messenger in the Pittsburg machine shop.

William Gunton, of Garrett City, an engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio road, was the guest of his sister, Mrs William Curry, of South Webster street, over Sunday.

The syndicate owning the Missouri, Kansas and Texas has decided to begin the extension of the road to San Antonio immediately. Labor is plenty, and railway material was never lower in price.

As the returns come in for October two important characteristics will be shown: First, that gross earnings are increasing; second, that operating expenses have been considerably cut down.

Robert Bartholomew, foreman of carpenters at Rhinesmith & Simonson's factory, is recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever. He was able to sit out on his porch a short time yesterday.

A horse owned by Weick Brothers, the East Jefferson street liverymen, ran away at the south depot this morning. The horse slipped and fell at Holman street and was bruised and cut slightly. No other damage.

The twenty-four hour train between New York and Chicago, known as the exposition flyer, will be taken off November 19. The Empire state express, running between Buffalo and New York, will be continued.

Local Wabash officials are in receipt of cheering news from Springfield, Ill. Supt. J. B. Barnes, who was thrown from his horse and had a limb broken some weeks ago, is improving nicely and is now able to sit up.

The foreigners at Midway Plaisance who went to California to attend the mid-winter fair secured transportation, Chicago to San Francisco, for $20 per head. This is the lowest figure ever reached in Pacific coast business.

Frank Cairnes, Frank Mannix, C. W. Hall and Michael Ehrman, of the Pittsburg machine shop, were fishing at Blue Lake yesterday. They are very reticent concerning their catch and it is believed that they didn't get a bite.

This morning Wabash engines 42 and 147, which were recently repaired in the shops in this city, went to Andrews to take service on the middle division. Tomorrow No. 331 will go to the same division, while Nos. 62, 167 and 533 will leave the shops for the Detroit division.

The Wabash company has settled with the Wabash Agricultural society for the destruction by fire of a number of sheds in the fair grounds. The society claimed that the sheds were set on fire by sparks from a Wabash locomotive, and asked $2,500 damages. A compromise at a less figure was effected.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Peterson, who live out near the east yards, were slightly injured in a runaway accident yesterday. They were returning from church shortly after the noon hour when their horse became frightened at a passing engine and ran away, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Peterson out of the vehicle and smashing the buggy into smithereens.

L. R. Buckwalter, machinist in the Pittsburg shops, received a telegram yesterday, stating that his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Donovan, died yesterday morning at her home in Philadelphia. Her husband died two years ago. Mrs. Donovan leaves three children, all married. Mr. Buckwalter will leave this evening for Philadelphia to attend the funeral, which takes place tomorrow afternoon.

The high officials of all Chicago roads are said to have been hard worked during the past six months. No doubt this is true, but compared with the labor performed by men who are not so high in railway life and whose salaries are not so princely the labors of the "bosses" sinks into insignificance. About the Pennsylvania depot and offices there are a dozen or more men who do more hard work in a week than the general officers do in a life time.

Frank and George Sweringen have fully decided to go to San Bernardino, Cal., and will leave probably next week. The shops where the young men will be employed are those of the California Southern road, a branch of the Santa Fe system. K. H. Wade, formerly division superintendent of the Wabash road, is the general manager of the California Southern and it was through his urgent solicitation that Frank and George were induced to throw up good positions here to go to the Pacific coast.

St. Helena is again the prison of royalty. Dinizul, the son and heir of Cetewayo, the Zulu king, and Undabuko, brother of the same monarch, are kept in captivity there by the British. Owing to the climate, which is much more severe than that of South Africa, the two Zulus have to wear blankets or some other heavy covering all the time. Their health is bad, and it is not believed that they will ever leave their island prison alive. The English Government probably does not intend that they shall.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Are Your Children Subject to Croup?

If so you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. The Best Plaster.

Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulder blades will often prevent pneumonia. There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can nearly always be cured in one night by applying a flannel bandage dampened with Pain Balm. 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

THE DOMESTIC SIDE

OF THE GREAT ENGLISH PUGILIST'S LIFE.

Home Surroundings of Charles Mitchell—The Father of an Interesting Family of Children—Has a Good Income Outside of Pugilism.

THE DOMESTIC side of a pugilist's life is something about which the public hears very little. In fact, it is not generally understood that men who make their living in the ring have any clearly defined idea of what domesticity really is. In the earlier days of the sport, when championship fights for $250 or $500 a side were common, pugilists lived longer and paid more attention to rearing up families than the stars of the roped arena do now.

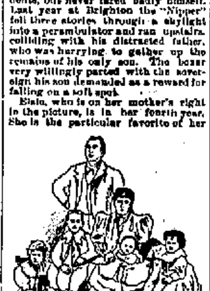

It wasn't customary for the oldtimers to squander small fortunes for champagne, and though they frequently felt the exhilarating effects of ale and spirits, the pace they set compared with that which many modern fistic celebrities have cut as stagecoach time does to the speed of the Empire State express. They hadn't money enough to play "Coal Oil Johnny," but since the advent of big purses successful boxers have at times had money to burn, and burned it.

Sullivan, who is responsible in a great measure for reviving the game and making it possible for brawny young men skilled in the science of self defense to live like Oriental princes, at least for a few months or years, himself parted with more than half a million before his defeat, and hadn't a toothpick to show for it. Still, he established an international reputation for being a "good fellow," upon which it is not probable that John could raise more than enough to buy a brown stone house should the day ever come when he is absolutely without funds. In many instances "good fellows" have not made model husbands, and this is particularly true of some pugilistic "good fellows."

It will surprise many a man and woman to know that Charley Mitchell is a man of family, and the interesting group presented herewith is certainly one of which any father and husband, be he lawyer, merchant, banker or what-not, might well feel proud. Americans have not until quite recently had a chance, excepting those who have come in contact with him personally, to regard Mitchell as anything but a bully and a braggart. Prejudiced writers have pitched into him continually without knowing why they did so other than it appeared to be the proper thing.

Mitchell is not nearly so black as he has been painted, and when he fights Corbett thousands of Americans will "root" for him to win. Mitchell has been married a little more than seven years. His wife was Miss Victoria Moore, youngest daughter of that celebrated character, "Pony" Moore, and she is described as a most charming woman by her American friends. The children are all bright, and Mitchell naturally is very proud of them. His favorite is Charles Mitchell, Jr., whom he calls the "Nipper." Little Charley is just past 6 and he makes it pretty lively for those around him. On several occasions he has figured in accidents, but never fared badly himself. Last year at Brighton the "Nipper" fell three stories through a skylight into a perambulator and ran upstairs, colliding with his distracted father, who was hurrying to gather up the remains of his only son. The boxer very willingly parted with the sovereign his son demanded as a reward for falling on a soft spot.

Elsie, who is on her mother's right in the picture, is in her fourth year. She is the particular favorite of her grandfather and shares the honors with little Charley at the festivities which are always held at "Pony's" house on July 4. A decidedly old-fashioned person is Lucy, who occupies the chair next to her mischievous brother. She is only one year Elsie's senior. The baby was born last spring and is said to be a living image of her mother.

Mitchell has a town house and a residence at Brighton. He owns two horses and several conveyances, so he manages to enjoy life. From the Washington Music hall the English boxer derives an income of something like $10,000 a year. This, with some other money which comes in, enables him to live as he does. It is, therefore, not absolutely necessary for Mitchell to fight for a living.

Cleveland's New Pitcher.

C. B. Fisher, the star pitcher of the Buffalo club, whom the Cleveland club has purchased, began playing ball at Anderson, Ind., his home, in 1890, his club winning the pennant in the Indiana State league. In 1891 he played with the Appleton club in the Wisconsin-Michigan league, and in 1892 with Oshkosh in the same league. This year he started the season with Easton in the Pennsylvania State league, and out of fifteen games pitched, lost but one. This record attracted Manager Chapman's eye, and he secured him for Buffalo in June—that is, of course, he took him without leave. His splendid pitching for Buffalo during his engagement has been equal to any in the country, and has brought him out prominently in the baseball world.—Sporting Life.

PROFESSOR LOMBROSO is an Italian scientist who has turned his learned attention to the subject of kissing. He has been nosing around the libraries gathering information and announces, as the result of his investigations, that kissing was, until comparatively lately, an entirely maternal action and not in any way peculiar to lovers. He quotes Homer and the old Indian literature to sustain his contention, although he admits that in the modern Hindu poems twelve kinds of kisses are mentioned.

APROPOS of the recent train robberies, an old story told on Maximilian is recalled: When Maximilian was Emperor of Mexico he broke up train robbing by a trick. He disguised 300 soldiers as peasant women and placed them on a train. A gang of bandits stopped the engine, when the 300 disguised soldiers rose and fired a volley that killed 100 robbers. After that the trains were not molested.

LOUISE DE LA RAMEE, more widely known as "Ouida," has told how she gets her knowledge of the language and habits of men about town, which is displayed in her novels. She invites young gentlemen of sporting proclivities to dine with her, and when the meal is over she tells them to talk, smoke and drink just as if they were at their clubs. They usually comply with the request, and she thus gathers a store of more or less edifying anecdotes, risky stories and double entendres for her next book.

THE Arabs have a superstition that the stork has a human heart. When one of the birds builds its nest on a house-top they believe the happiness of that household is insured for that year.

EVEN if a woman knows herself to be less beautiful than others she never forgives a man for knowing it, too.

ALEXANDER ZEDERBAUM, who has just died at St. Petersburg, was the editor of a remarkable newspaper, the Hamelitz. It is a daily paper printed in classical Hebrew, stock reports, money market, political news, and all. Zederbaum was born in Poland and was originally a tailor. He educated himself, and having acquired some money, started the Hamelitz as a weekly. Ten years ago it became a daily, and as its circulation was over all Europe among the Jews, its proprietor made a fortune.

He has arranged with Manager Simonson for the presentation of both plays at the Temple on Saturday night for one admission to both. Valentine Meyer, of Marion Township, nearly Killed.

He is Almost Scalped in a Runaway—Dr. Miller Takes Thirty Stitches—Other Casualties.

Valentine Meyer, a highly respected and well known farmer living some eight miles from this city on the Piqua wagon road, met with a frightful accident Saturday night about 10 o'clock. Mr. Meyer and his son Charles had been to the city in the afternoon trading, and started home quite late. As they were driving past Miller's brick yard, south of this city, the team became frightened and ran. A strap broke, allowing the tongue of the wagon to fall, and the end ran into the ground. The shock threw Meyer and his son out, and the old gentleman was pitched under the wheel. In some unknown manner a gash several inches in length was cut on the left side of his head extending from the crown of his head clear around the skull to a point near the left ear, allowing the flesh to fall down over his face. The wound was a horrible one. Dr. J. E. Miller was hastily summoned and was compelled to take about thirty stitches before the gaping wound was sewed up. The injured man is over seventy-one years of age and the wound will go hard with him. His son was unhurt.

Edith, the seventeen-year-old daughter, and the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs J. W. Hippenhammer, fell down a flight of stairs at their home Saturday and sustained very serious injuries. The child had a lower limb fractured and the young lady was very painfully bruised. Miss Hippenhammer and her little brother were coming down the stairway together, when they accidentally stumbled and fell.

A sad accident occurred at the Gandy-Nickey bandsaw mill at Auburn, Saturday, which resulted in the death of Clarence Rittenhouse. Mr. Rittenhouse was employed as second man on the carriage and was trying to roll a log nearer the carriage when his canthook let loose. He fell backward and was caught by the end of the carriage as it was coming back. His neck was broken, causing death in an instant. Mr. Rittenhouse has been in the employ of the company for several years and was an ambitious young man. He leaves a wife and two-weeks-old baby. He was about twenty-five years of age. The deceased was well known in this city.

A party of Fort Wayne fishermen were at Perdie's lake yesterday. Phillip Wick was among the party and accidentally fell into the lake and was nearly drowned. His companions fished him out and the rest of the day was spent in pulling out fish.

AN OLD SOLDIER.

He Passes Away at the Hedekin House.

One Time a Partner of Buffalo Bill on the Great Plains—Deaths and Funerals.

About 6:30 last evening at the Hedekin house occurred the death of "Jack" Morris, a familiar character about town. Morris was not feeling well Saturday evening and went to his room. Yesterday he was much worse and the doctor pronounced it a case of pleurisy. The remains were taken to Peltier's morgue. Morris was at one time a partner of Buffalo Bill on the western plains and was a soldier in the union army during the rebellion. He was drawing a pension from the government. In his last illness he was tenderly cared for by a number of his old comrads. The time of the funeral has not been set.

GANZER.

George Ganzer, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ganzer, died at 9 o'clock last night at the home of the parents, No. 400 East Lewis street. The little fellow had been suffering with gastric fever for a long time and his death was not unexpected. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, from St. Mary's Catholic church.

THE FUNERALS.

The remains of Michael Buckles, who died Saturday at his home on Riverside avenue, were taken to Ohio today for interment. The deceased leaves a wife and family. He was a driver for the Centlivre street car line and was very popular among his associates.

The funeral of the late Dr. Worley held yesterday at Williamsport, was one of the largest ever witnessed in that part of the country. The fraternal orders all turned out. The services began in the M. E. church at 10 o'clock, and did not conclude until nearly noon. Many Fort Wayne people were present.

The funeral of the late August F. Foestal was held yesterday under the auspices of Concordia lodge, I. O. O. F., and was very largely attended. The City band headed the cortege. The services were held at the Tabernacle.

The funeral of James H. Ruhl, whose death occurred last Thursday, took place Sunday afternoon at Antioch church and was largely attended. Rev. D. F. Kain, of Monroeville, officiated and Rev. J. S. Nelson, of this city, assisted. Mr. Ruhl was born in Shrewsburg, York county, Pa., March 12, 1830. Departed this life November 2, 1893, aged sixty-three years, seven months and twenty days. Mr. Ruhl accompanied his parents in their removal from York county, Pa., to Galion, Ohio, his father entering from the government the lands upon which a portion of Galion now stands. In 1851 he was married to Miss Lucinda Trowl. To this union there were seven children, five sons and two daughters, all of whom are living. In 1857 Brother Ruhl removed from Galion to Adams county, near Monmouth, and in 1866 to the old homestead, which bears his name, and where he resided at the time of his death. The life and character of this man of God are too well known in this community to need comment. In the home, in the community, as in the church, his life and example were a constant benediction. If there was one trait in his character which more than another deserves especial mention it was that of peacemaker, and that title was universally conceded to him. Volumes might be added, but let it suffice to say that by all he was preeminently loved and honored.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Ford, and about one hundred guests were present to witness the tying of the nuptial knot. A sumptuous wedding supper was served later, and all then joined in celebrating the occasion.

A very entertaining program has been arranged for the meeting of the Missionary club at the First Presbyterian church this evening. Rev. Garvin, a returned missionary from Santiago, Chili, will deliver an address, which will be followed by a "quiz hour." Later an entertainment will be given by the teachers in charge of the Chinese Sunday school in honor of Leung Dow and Leung Moh, who leave in two weeks for China, and also in compliment to Dr. Leung Don, visiting in this city while on his way east.

The ladies who are members of the physical culture class of Mrs. Jennie Ormsby speak highly of the health-giving benefits that result from the splendid training which she gives. Culture seems to be the password for the modern woman. No matter what her station, she longs to improve her body, mind and soul to the best possible ideal. It is this culture which the training of Mrs Ormsby gives and it is doing grand work for all the ladies who are attending her classes. The practice is not violent, but easy and natural and intended to develop just that part of the system which each lady needs. THE SENTINEL reporter had the pleasure of witnessing the drill Saturday and also of hearing Mrs. Ormsby in some recitations from "Hamlet." She is an elocutionist of a high order of merit and charms her hearers with her excellent renditions.

Today (Nov. 6th) a flower show commences at the World's Fair, to be continued until the 14th. Prizes will be awarded. No doubt it will prove highly successful. Not to be compared with our display of clothing however. We have a continuous exhibition. It fascinates everybody. Without our merchandise you cannot live in comfort. All say we sell superfine clothing. With our two-edged sword we cut down prices. See them fall. Catch them while you may. They cannot last forever. Wise folks save where they can. We help them. We cap the climax in clothing. So may our patrons.

A Word on Men's Clothing.

Its very amusing to us to read the advertisements of certain clothing houses in this city in which they invariably claim to sell the FINEST CLOTHING ON EARTH. There's nothing like claiming enough while you're about it. For ourselves, we only claim to sell as GOOD READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING as can be shown by any clothing house in this country.

Our assortment of MEN'S SUITS and OVERCOATS this season is superior in SELECTION, STYLE and FINISH to any we have ever shown and prices were never so low for GOOD CLOTHING before.

See our Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters, at $10, $12, $15, $18, $20. You have never seen their equal at the price.
